

Brian Drosdovech, Immaculata Coach

About Brian Drosdovech:

Brian Drosdovech teaches and coaches at Immaculata Regional High, a small catholic school in Kelowna, BC. He's been coaching for 30 years, and his first coaching experience was with a provincial team of grade 10 boys in Calgary, Alberta. He currently coaches track and field, and basketball.

Why He Became a Coach:

“It’s a natural progression if you are going to teach PE or any other subject for that matter. What a great way to get to know kids in a holistic way. You get to see the development in all aspects of your athlete/student’s life. What could be better?!”

Most Rewarding Experience as a Coach:

“Kids who come back and say thanks for something you have told them that you may not have thought was such a big deal, but helped them in some aspect of their life. Also those who come back to help in the program and give back!”

Biggest Challenge as a Coach:

“Time away from my wife and [younger] kids. Now I get to coach my daughter so that is a great investment of my time.”

What Athletes Look for in a Coach:

“Someone who actually listens and cares about them and not just the win.”

Proudest Moment:

“Actually I have a ton of those but this year the senior girls finished 3rd at the BC's. Not a championship but like one because of who we beat and how we did it. It was a total class act by a fantastic group of young ladies that I am so proud of.”
